THE WHITE HOUSE

WASHINGTON

December 6, 1978

Dear Jim:

Through the courtesy of Senator Eastland, your thoughts about world hunger have been brought to President Carter's attention.

Although the President would prefer to respond personally to each message he receives, the tremendous volume of mail denies him the opportunity, and he trusts you will understand.

He was glad to have your views and has asked that we send you the enclosed material in which he discusses the issues you raised.

It always pleases the President to know the interest young people are taking in problems facing our Nation and the world today. Your concern is important, since the business of running our country will soon belong to your generation.

With the President's best wishes,

Sincerely,

Landon Kite
